

Researching Domestic Violence with Children and Young People

Half-Day Research Symposium

10.30am - 2.30pm

Wed 25th April 2012

Room 3.214, University Place, Manchester University

- 10.30-11.00 Conducting domestic violence research in schools: Experiences from an evaluation of a school-based domestic abuse prevention programme.
Becky Hale, Keele University and Dr. Mary-Louise Corr, University of Manchester
- 11.00 – 11.30 Tales from the field: Conducting focus groups with young male perpetrators of domestic violence.
Prof. David Gadd and Dr. Mary-Louise Corr, University of Manchester
- 11.30-12.00 'It's wrong for a boy to hit a girl because the girl might cry' - researching young people's understandings of men's violence against women.
Dr. Nancy Lombard, Edinburgh Napier University
- 12.00-12.45 Focus groups and one-to one interviews with children and young people witnessing violence: Which method works best?
Prof Margareta Hydén, University of Linköping, Sweden
- 12.45-1.30 Lunch
- 1.30-2.30 Which way now? Achieving responsive research with children and young people?
Panel Discussion